

Standards of Behavior

Ross Mathematics Program · ross@rossprogram.org · (773) 809-5659

Expected behaviors for participants:

- Treat other people the way you would like to be treated.
- Attend all classes (lectures and seminars) for the Number Theory course.
- Spend almost all of your time and effort working on Ross math classes and problem sets.
- Follow the rules set by the Counselors. (Counselors are in charge of dormitory life.)

Behaviors that are not permitted:

- Using other people's work without attribution.
- Bringing an electronic device with internet capability, other than a cell phone.
Using a cell phone outside of my own dorm room.
- Spending time and attention on things unrelated to math.
- Leaving campus.*
- Leaving the dormitory building after dark.*
- Damaging property that belongs to others.
- Taking photographs without the explicit permission of those being photographed.
- Consuming alcohol, tobacco products, or illegal drugs.

Consequences of violations of the standards of behavior:

- Ross Program Counselors and Administrators will be made aware of the violation.
- Parents/guardians will be notified. If necessary, arrangements will be made to remove the participant from the program.
- When warranted, the situation may be turned over to law enforcement authorities.

*Unless given explicit permission, and accompanied by a Ross Counselor or Administrator.
